Mr. Donald Morris

Dear Mr. Morris:

Richard Kluger, the editor of the Herald Tribune's book section, which also appears in the Washington Post and San Francisco Examiner, would very much like to run a long interview with you. The basis of the story would be how someone involved in government intelligence came to write a history of the Zulu nation.

There would be no need to go into great detail about the specifics of your work, but they would want to touch on its general nature. If you are interested and if you could get to New York for one day in mid-April please let me know. If you have any questions do call.

Sincerely,

Dan Green
